Acting Like a Baby

verse one:
"Quit actin' like a baby."
I hate it when they tell me that.
Anyone would cry
With lipstick in their eye
They got from tryin' to paint the cat.
Now, peanut butter, that's some sticky stuff—
You can only get it off
When you suck your thumb enough.
Don't mean I'm actin' like a baby.
I'm not actin' like a baby.

verse two:
You're callin' this a tantrum?
You don't even have a clue.
Of course I'm gonna wail,
My arms are gonna flail,
When I'm practicin' the boogaloo.
I wear a diaper just because I'm busy.
My grandpa wears a diaper,
And he's not a baby, is he?
I'm not actin' like a baby.

bridge:
You might be bigger,
But far as I can see,
When you walk away,
You're even littler than me.
You're the baby.
How do you like it?

verse three:
I'm Daddy's little genius—
It's written right here on my bib.
Someone smart as me
Should be out there runnin' free,
Not locked up in this stupid crib.
I've been known to hit the bottle,
Take the stroller for a jaunt,
But the truth is, I could quit anytime I want.
I'm not actin' like a baby.
